

Eli's POV

I was organizing my things in my new apartment and it got me real busy for the past few weeks, enrolling is hard though and there were a lot of college students around so I had to wait in line. What's worse was that almost all of the people recognized me being the school idol of Otonokizaka and suddenly surrounded me, either asking for autographs or pictures and since I couldn't run away from them, all I could do was to give them chances and it took me a lot of time. It took me almost 14 hours straight in the university I enrolled into, it was stressful but hey, I at least finished up my enrollment right? And then there came the entrance exams, I passed it of course but then there goes my fans again, I managed to run away from some people but the girls in the university were clever so most of them caught me. But I got home safely after 10 hours in the university. And now after days passed I was now organizing my apartment as I wait for the class to start which is the day after tomorrow.

I applied for Fashion Management since it is related to my hobby which is quilting. And it is also one of my dreams to apply for it.

After a while, I finally finished and stretched, relaxing and straightening up my bones from fatigue now all I have to do is buy some things needed for school and organize them next. But because of this I suddenly remembered those days way back when I was still a third year at Otonokizaka. It sure was fun... And I'm starting to miss the girls.. I wonder how they have been doing, maybe I should text Honoka or Nozomi to set up a reunion for μ's if ever all of us get a free time. I'm sure that all of them will attend the reunion.. It has been three months anyway.

And after about half a day,I finally bought my necessary things for school and arranged them in my bag,now I remembered when me and Nozomi were still the Student Councillors..how I missed her..and I wonder if she missed me too..I guess I should text her sometime after I'm done with things..

Tomorrow is another day I guess...

~~~~~
~~~~~

The sound of my alarm clock rang loudly as I groaned in annoyance and quickly extended my hand to shut it off. I then sat up on my bed and yawned,"Jeez...I shouldn't have picked a morning schedule.." I said grumpily to myself as I went off the bed to get ready.

And then I went to school after that...

My eyes sparkled in amazement as I looked around my new school,it was very spacious and it almost looked like a wide park with city buildings. Impressive though,I can always hang out around those bermuda-grassed places with benches,I can also invite everyone out here and maybe convince them to enroll here when they graduated? I think I'm kinda selfish but it is just a suggestion..

I then looked around,in order to get used of my new surroundings. I bet that I won't be able to explore everything here in a day but I remembered some places when I first enrolled here. I then went to one school building that says College of Fashions and go to my new classroom.

And it seems my new classmates recognized me very well. No turning back now but I have to get used to it.

~~~~~
~~~~~

Nozomi's POV

After class,I hurriedly went out of the classroom with my classmates looking at me confusely who were about to approach me,I was so excited to see her again,but the people around me recognized me as a school idol and were eventually asking for autographs or pictures but then,I don't care about that right now. I have to look and ensure if it was really Eli that I saw going inside the COF. After going out of my building which was named College of News and Broadcasting,I dashed towards the COF and looked around while secretly looking at the rooms,in hopes that I would get to see Eli.

And after a while of searching,I finally saw her in a room at the third floor of the building. I stopped beside the entrance and slightly panted and looked up at the room sign that reads 'Room 312'. I will remember that.

God I wasn't hallucinating! She was really here! She was really studying here! I never thought that we would meet again here! Such a wonderful coincidence! What if the other members of μ's also enrolled here? We will be together again! Singing and dancing as college school idols, but then again life will separate us again...

I must not think of that right now. I have to wait for Eli.. I then looked around and saw some benches near Eli's room and went to sit there to wait patiently. However, after a while, the people in the building saw me and quickly went towards me. I was surprised and then quickly moved away from them to avoid troubles but then the class bell rang, bad timing... As much as I want to take notice of their requests I just couldn't find the right time since I'm on a mission here. I regretted forgetting my tarot cards at home..

~~~~~
~~~~~

Eli's POV

After the bell rang, the professor then told us our new assignments making us groan since it was the first day of school but I, on the other hand quite understand why. After the professor left, I then arranged my things in my bag and then stood up to leave the classroom. I do have a lot of time in my hands so why not have a small snack? I then went to the stairs and was about to go down but then suddenly..

"Eli!" A familiar voice rang as it called out my name..

(insert the theme song here)

How could I forget that beautiful voice?

I slowly turned around and was a bit hesitant at first to call out a name but...

I said the name anyway, "Nozomi?"

Then my eyes slowly widened when I was right..

~~~~~

Nozomi's POV

After getting away from the fans, I then quickly went back to Eli's room but I couldn't find her there. Shoot, I got too late! I started running again towards the stairs and saw her finally and quickly called her out.

"Eli!"

I stopped in my tracks while panting and my heart skipped a beat when she stopped and slowly turned around..

And then my heart beat loud and fast again when she spoke up my name.

Then our eyes met once again...

A/N:Here is the second chapter guys! How was it? I did my best on this one! Have a good day there! ^. ^ And oh,it would really help me alot if you will push down that vote button and comment,trust me,it will really help alot! See ya in the next chapter!